

When You
Have Disputes,

There are Choices!

Mediation. It Works!

THERE ARE SOLUTIONS

Facilitation

Facilitator helps group identify and solve problems.

Facilitation

- Parties make decision
- Informal process
- Parties determine who participates
- Agenda and agreements are dependent on the parties

Facilitation is a collaborative way to manage a group discussion to help the group identify and solve problems, make decisions, and complete tasks.

Facilitation encourages a cooperative environment so that the group can fulfill its purpose as easily as possible.

Facilitation creates a climate that invites creative thinking, protects individuals from criticism, and generates ideas so the group can reach its goals.

Mediation

Mediator helps parties explore solutions.

Mediation

- Parties make decision
- Informal process
- Rules of evidence do not apply
- Often faster and less expensive than litigation
- Sessions may be confidential
- Agreements are determined by the parties

Mediation is a process in which the parties to a dispute (and sometimes their lawyers) meet with a trained impartial person, or “mediator,” who helps them explore solutions. The mediator meets with all sides, together and separately, and uses a variety of techniques to help the parties come to a resolution. The mediator does not decide disputes.

Arbitration

Arbitrator makes decisions.

Arbitration

- Arbitrator makes decision
- Less formal process than litigation
- Limited discovery
- Often faster and less expensive than litigation
- Hearings can be private
- Decisions may be final (with limited appeal rights)

The arbitration process generally takes the place of a court trial. Instead of going before a judge, disputing parties agree that they will be bound by the decision of an impartial person, or “arbitrator.”

The arbitrator listens to opposing parties in a dispute and renders a decision.

Arbitration is private, usually voluntary, and decisions are almost always binding.

(Many cases filed in the Hawaii State Judiciary are included in the Court Annexed Arbitration Program [CAAP]. CAAP arbitrations are non-binding.)
