JEFS Updates for March 2015 Release: Deployment date March 19, 2015

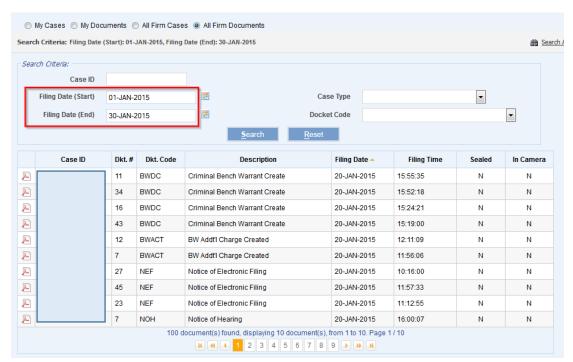

JPS-3848 JEFS Manage Cases: New My Documents and All Firm Documents

The new My Documents will function similar to the My Cases feature by displaying a list of PDFs for cases in which the user is a party. All Firm Documents will display a list of PDFs for cases in which any member of that user's Firm is a party. The displayed list will be based on search criteria in any combination: Case ID, Filing Date Start and/or End, Case Type and Docket Code. Search results will display up to 100 results.

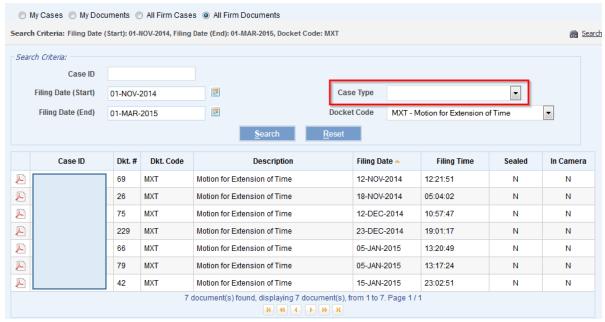

All Firm Documents Case Type search: PDFs filed on Appeal case type only are displayed

The Filing Date Start and End can be used to easily find documents filed in a date range. This search could be very helpful to monitor recent activity on cases without using a specific Case ID, Case Type or Docket Code, especially in a situation where the user does not know which docket was used for the filing.

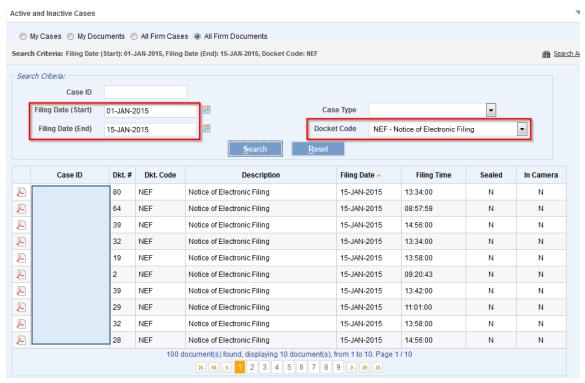

All Firm Documents Filing Date Start and End entered: Case ID, Case Type and Docket Code BLANK

Any search criteria can be used alone or in combination. See example below for a date range search result combined with a specific Docket Code. The Case Type search field was left blank, making this type of search helpful for Firms with multiple case types.

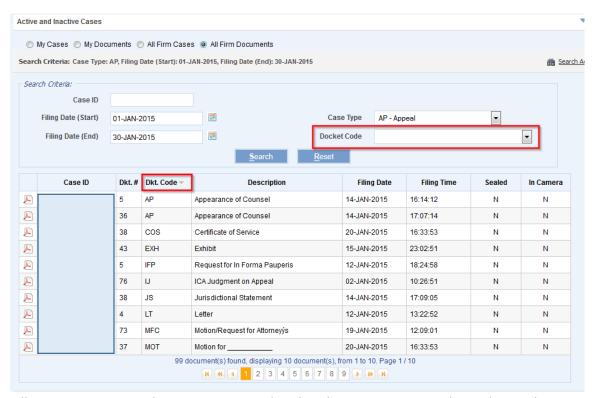

All Firm Documents search with date range plus MXT Docket Code: Case type BLANK will display cases from any case type

If only a single type of docket is desired, such as the NEF, the docket code can be added to the date range search.

All Firm Documents Filing Date Start and End entered: Docket Code NEF only

For large searches, some columns will also be sortable. For example, Docket Code sorting alphabetically can be very useful where the Docket Code has been left BLANK, and the user is looking for certain results. The user can use a mouse to click at the top of the column to sort alphabetically and click again to reverse.

All Firm Documents Filing Date Start and End and Case Type entered: Docket Code BLANK and Docket Code column is sortable alphabetically for large search results

JPS-4572 Phone number does not display correctly in the JEFS Users Manage Profile. Bug which placed 7 digit phone number in a field sized to only display 3 digits is fixed.

JPS-6156 Enhancement to restrict JEFS users from filing and adding parties to confidential/sealed cases. Confidential/sealed cases were accessible to JEFS filers for electronic filing without any court staff review, as long as the JEFS filer had the Case ID. With the Supreme Court Clerk's Office and Staff Attorney approval, confidential/sealed cases will be restricted to electronic filing by case parties and their counsel only. Only court staff will be able to add new parties/counsel to cases which are already confidential/sealed, therefore, new parties/counsel need to inquire at the respective court if they wish to file via JEFS. Parties and their counsel who are already on confidential/sealed cases are not affected.
