If you have ever thought of applying for a judgeship, or want to know how the Judicial Selection Commission operates, you might be interested in attending a brown bag meeting at the Supreme Court conference room at 12 noon on Tuesday, October 30, 2012. All of the current commissioners will be there, hosting the informational meeting. This is an unprecedented opportunity for you to learn more about judicial selection in Hawaii.

The Judicial Selection Commission has scheduled informational meetings in every Judicial Circuit to meet members of the Bar. Commissioners traveled to neighbor islands for these meetings. We informed Bar members about the Commission, how it operates, and why Bar members should apply for judicial office.
